VOLUME 2. | Entered at the Post Office at Janesville Wis., as second-class matter. | JANESVILLE, WISCONSIN, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 4 1885 | Published Every Evening Except Sunday, at $6 a Year | NUMBER 306

The Gazette publishes on the fourth page of this issue, the petition which the high license men of our sister city, Beloit, have sent to the state legislature. The sentiment of the petitioners is the popular sentiment among the people of this state at this time on the question of high license. There is not only a demand for it, but there is a necessity for it, and the Gazette joins in the hope that high license will be adopted by the present legislature.

CHOLERA AND MARRIAGE.

One of the recent and important discoveries is that marriage is an antidote for cholera, at least so far as men are concerned. It is reported that late statistics of the cholera in France show that married men are much less liable to be attacked by cholera than bachelors. In a population of 100,000 men between the ages of 25 and 50, 51 unmarried men died of cholera while only 18 married men fell victims to the disease. Between the ages of 30 and 35 the mortality from cholera was 78 among bachelors and 21 among married men, and between the ages of 50 and 55, 167 unmarried men and only 37 married men died. It will be seen from these figures that married men have three times as many chances of life during a cholera epidemic as unmarried men.

It is no wonder that Mrs. Winks was surprised when she read the Paris statistics and heard that nine-tenths of the male victims of cholera were unmarried; but she seemed to take it philosophically when Mr. Winks explained the Koch theory—"that cholera germs are easily destroyed by boiling"—and married men generally being kept in hot water, there is no chance for the cholera germs to work destruction.

But the explanation of the Koch theory is that married men live in circumstances more favorable to health than those who are unmarried. Their food is better, because they have wives to look after it, and their general surroundings tend to a calmer frame of mind, a purer atmosphere, all of which very directly are influences against the spreading of cholera.

EX-PRESIDENT ARTHUR.

To-day President Arthur vacates the presidential chair for Grover Cleveland, and it is a fitting time to say a few words regarding himself personally, and his administration generally.

When Mr. Arthur became president by the tragic death of President Garfield, the republican party was divided in the east by bitter factions. In New York especially, the party was next thing to being demoralized, so that when Mr. Arthur became president, with an unusually heavy burden of responsibility resting upon him, a good many republicans had misgivings as to whether he was just the man for such an emergency. But he had conducted himself with such manliness, wisdom and patriotism during General Garfield's illness, that the majority of the party had unshaken confidence in his ability to dignify the office to which he was called.

The good sense which distinguished him through those trying months, abided with him during his administration, and steadily did he grow in the good opinion of not only the republican party, but of the fair-minded and business-like men of the democratic party. It is said that he was the most "gentlemanly" president we ever had, but not only that, his whole course has shown that he had broad intelligence, rare common sense, marked culture, a thorough knowledge of public questions, cool judgment, and an honest heart. Some thought that the painful circumstances under which he entered the great office, would prevent him from winning success, but in this they were mistaken. He has been exceedingly prudent, conservative and manly, and thus inspired the confidence of the country, and he retires from the presidential office not only with dignity and honor, but with the profound respect of the people.

To show how thoroughly manly and how truly American Mr. Arthur is, it is only necessary to mention what use he will put himself to now that he is no longer president. He is a perfect model and illustration of what a man should be who has been president. He is determined to do a man's part in the world still, and will actively engage in the practice of the law in New York. He doesn't propose to act the drone, and for this he wins the applause of his fellow citizens regardless of party.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY AND ITS ACHIEVEMENTS.

Twenty-four years ago to-day, the republican party assumed the control of this government. To-day it surrenders that control to the democratic party. The achievements of the Nation under the administration of the republican party are without a parallel in the history of political organizations. It recounts greater services for liberty, for the country, for mankind, than any other party in any other nation or at any other time.

Let us look back about a quarter of a century and see what the young republican party has done for this Nation. It will be remembered that the arrogance and defiance of the slave-power brought into being the republican party. When it began its career about twenty-eight years ago, "it was penniless and without shoes upon its feet," but what it has accomplished since it gave immortality to the name of Lincoln, forms one of the brightest pages in universal history. By the time the democratic party was compelled to surrender the control of the government to the republicans, it had reduced the country to absolute bankruptcy and to the verge of dissolution. There was no money in the treasury when Abraham Lincoln was elected in 1860. The credit of the government, under democratic rule, became so low that it was humiliated in being compelled to go begging for loans at 12 per cent. Insurrection was festering in the south. The national forces were scattered or disbanded. The industries of the country were paralyzed beyond all example. Free trade and the democratic party were in all their glory, and Europe was momentarily expecting to see our political dissolution. This was the condition of things when the young republican party came into power. But it was even worse than that. The new party was confronted by the most gigantic and abstinate rebellion of ancient or modern times. It not only suppressed that rebellion, but among the countless members of its splendid deeds and grand achievements, are these:

It brought emancipation to four millions of slaves, making them free men and free women.

It adopted a system of finance which has proved to be the best system ever given to the world.

It re-established the credit of the government so that our bonds, instead of going a-begging for buyers at 12 per cent. as under democratic rule, the people of this country are glad to get four per cents at a premium of 23 cents!

It repaired all the disasters of the democratic misrule.

It adopted the American system of protection which multiplied the national wealth.

It upheld the national faith.

It has given the people a safer, sounder and a better currency than this country ever before had.

It brought about resumption, and made a dollar in paper and a dollar in gold march side by side, the one not being any advantage over the other, as regards value, in any part of this country.

It has advanced our educational system to a higher standard than ever before attained in the United States.

It developed the resources of the nation to a vaster extent than was possible under the democratic policy.

These indicate the line of policy the republican party adopted during the past twenty-four years. It may have made a few mistakes, but no organization, political or religious, has ever existed, that failed to have committed errors. The republican party has been upon the right side of every great national question, and the vastness of its enterprises and the grandeur of their results are without a parallel in the history of nations.

But the party of such honors and triumphs must go for the present; and the party which is "very hungry, and you may well believe, very thirsty"—a party without a single definite principle, and a party without a distinct national policy, takes its place to-day! This is the judgment of the people, and sometimes the people make as grave mistakes as political parties. But no human foresight can guard against the unconscious machinations of stupidity. "The stars in their course fought against Sisera." By the most contemptable and wicked blunder ever known in political contests, was the republican party defeated. But it fought a good fight. It has a proud history. Its deeds are written upon the brightest pages of universal history. Its retirement from power is but temporary. With the pages of history emblazoned with its splendid achievements, both in war and peace, its work will not be forgotten. It will be revived in strength during the coming three or four years, and the party that was able to put treason, rebellion, and slavery under its feet, will be called back into power to advance the progressive civilization of this continent.

Marie Antoinette's Dressmaker.

[Boston Letter.]

The Boston public library has recently received a very unique publication from Paris, being a diary kept by the dressmaker to Mary Antoinette. The orders given by the queen and the ladies of the court for robes, headdresses, etc., are noted down—and the materials used in producing these articles are enumerated with great accuracy. The illustrations are also quite remarkable. The tall hats worn by ladies today are as acorns compared with pumpkins in dimensions to those worn in the times of the unfortunate queen. Two large volumes are required to record these interesting details illustrative of the prevailing taste of 100 years ago.

The Divorce Problem.

[New York Mail.]

The Paris Charivari has a very clever picture of the divorce problem in an alleged toy for children. On an ordinary stand are figures of a man and woman standing at either end and facing each other. They are joined by a band which so connects them that they cannot be separated except by cutting it apart. On this band are strung several children, who, if the band is cut, will slip off the loose ends and fall down. The problem is to cut the band without jeopardizing the position of the children. It points to a moral very graphically, and one worth considering by the community in connection with our frequent and easy divorce.

Lamp Mats.

["Aunt Addie" in The Housekeeper.]

By cutting off the handle of palm leaf fans you can make very good table or lamp mats. Bind them around the edge with either braid or ribbon, or you may knit a border of silk pieces if for a lamp mat; if for latter purpose put some tiny bows of ribbon, or some balls over the binding; if balls are used pick them out with a needle after you make them to have them appear more pluffy.

Children at Tables.

[Harper's Young People.]

Perhaps the reason boys and girls do not feel comfortable and at ease as they might on special occasions at the table is because they do not take pains to be perfectly polite when there is no one present but ordinary house-folks.

A Nice Whisk Broom Holder.

Take one of the straw cuffs used by gentlemen for sleeve protectors, pleat narrow ribbon or braid around the top and bottom, paste a fancy picture in front and make a cord and balls or tassels to hang it up by.

Threading a Needle.

An experienced seamstress says that if you would only thread your needle from the end opposite to the end broken off from the spool you would never be troubled with the cotton knotting.

A little borax applied to fever blisters will surely cure them. It dries them and prevents their spreading.

INAUGURATION!

The Inaugural Ceremony at Washington.

General Grant Placed on the Retired List.

President Cleveland's Inaugural Address Well Received.

The Cabinet Officers Unofficially Announced.

Special to the Gazette.

WASHINGTON, March 4th. The weather is fine and the streets crowded at an early hour. At 10:30 the senate committee proceeded to the white house and joined President Arthur who proceeded to the Arlington hotel where Cleveland was waiting. They took carriages, Cleveland on the left of Arthur, Senators Ransom and Sherman opposite. The carriage was drawn by four horses and white reins. Following came Hendrick and Senator Hawley. The procession started for the capitol at 10:30.

In the inauguration address Cleveland said his oath supplimented manifestation with all real and free people who, in the exercise of power and right of self-government, had committed to one fellow citizen the supreme and sacred trust. He had a solemn sense of the responsibility and duty he owed the people of the land, and nothing would relieve him of the sense of anxiety lest through any act of his the interests of the people should suffer. If, from this hour, we honestly abandon all sectional predjudices and distrust, and determine with manly confidence, and work harmoniously we shall realize all the benefits of this happy form of government. In the discharge of official duties we will endeavor to be guided by a just and unrestrained constriction of the constitution and a careful distinction between the powers granted the federal government and those belonging to the states, and a cautious appreciation of the functions assigned the president.

In closing Mr. Cleveland said the needs of the country dictated a scrupulous avoidance of any departure from the foreign policy of Monroe. The finances should be established on a sound basis, secure safety to business interests, make wages and labor sure and steady, and the revenue shall be adjusted so as to relieve the people from unnecessary taxation. The public domain should be protected from unlawful occupations, the Indians honestly treated, polygamy rigidly repressed, immigration of contract labor prohibited, civil service reform enforced, and rights of freedmen as citizens protected. The oath was then taken and great enthusiasm and cheering followed.

WASHINGTON, March 4th:—The march to the capitol was an immense ovation. Cleveland responded by lifting his hat. The senate chamber was brilliant in appearance. President Arthur arrived at noon, and Cleveland immediately followed. Loud voice in the galleries called for cheers. The chair threatened to clear the galleries if applause was indulged in. The oath of office was administered to Hendricks. Edmunds made a farewell speech saying it might be doubted whether congress could congratulate itself on being an example of a legislative body conducting business with care and decorum. Hendricks made a few opening remarks asking indulgence if he should forget some rules of the chamber.

[POSTSCRIPT.—It has been impossible at this telegraphing to get a perfectly reliable list of the cabinet. It seems, however, to be settled that the cabinet will be as follows:

Mr. Bayard, secretary of state.
Mr. Manning, secretary of the treasury.
Mr. Lamar, secretary of the interior.
Mr. Garland, attorney-general.
Col. Vilas, postmaster-general.
Judge Endicott, secretary of war.
Mr. Whitney, secretary of the navy.

An effort is being made to get Whitney and Endicott off the list, but whether it will succeed seems to be doubtful.]

GENERAL GRANT.

The Grant retiring bill was passed by both houses amid thunders of applause. It was immediately signed by the president and confirmed by the senate in open executive session.

AN ALL-NIGHT SESSION.

CONGRESS STAYS AWAKE TO CLOSE UP BUSINESS.

The House Accepts the Subsidy Clause in the Postoffice Bill—Hazen Suspended and To Go Court-Martialed—National Capital Notes.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 4.—At midnight Tuesday members of the conference committees asserted positively that the work of passing the annual appropriation bills would be accomplished before the time for final adjournment. The situation at that hour briefly summed up was as follows: Bills passed—Military academy, consular and diplomatic, army, District of Columbia, agricultural, pensions, Indian. In conference—Legislative (two amendments in dispute), navy (not yet reported), postoffice (three disagreements, including the Pacific mail subsidy), and the following which have so recently passed the senate that there has not been time for a full conference: Sundry civil, deficiency, fortifications. Under discussion in senate—River and harbor.

Mr. Springer informed a representative of the United Press at 2 a. m. Wednesday that the postoffice bill would probably fail. When asked for his reasons he replied: "The senate conferees have informed the house conferees that they will not recede from the clause appropriating $800,000 for foreign mail service performed by vessels of American registry (better known as the subsidy clause) and the house is quite as determined in its position not to accept it. If this bill fails an extra session must be called. The indications now, in my judgment, warrant the belief that this will not be the only bill to fail."

Members who favor the subsidy clause claim to have sufficient strength in the house to carry it. If this proves true of course the bill will pass with the subsidy clause incorporated in it. The vote by which the clause passed the senate was not such a determined expression of opinion as to justify the strong ground taken by the senate conferees on this question, and it is highly probable that when the senate is brought face to face with the question, subsidy or extra session, the senate will do as it did on the Oklahoma question in the Indian appropriation bill, and vote down the recommendation of its conferees.

LATER.—Debate on the postal bill was resumed at about 2 a. m. Bayne, McAdoo and Clay opposed concurrence, the two last declaring their decided preference for an extra session to the adoption of the senate amendment. It was nevertheless agreed to—yeas, 100; nays, 88. Horr moved to reconsider the vote by which the amendment was agreed to and to lay that motion on the table. So ordered—yeas, 104; nays, 79. Townshend asked that the house insist on its disagreement to the senate amendment striking out the special stamp clause. McMillan of Tennessee, moved concurrence in the senate amendments—lost, 66 to 79. The amendments were non-concurred in and the bill sent to conference once more.

About 1 o'clock Wednesday morning, Lewis of Louisiana, arose to a question of privilege, and accused Payson of Illinois, of stating what was not true in regard to the public lands committee on the anti-fencing law. Payson had said that the senate amendments had been referred to the committee and concurred in, whereas Lewis said they had not been considered in committee. Judge Payson was not present, and Davis of Illinois, appealed to Lewis as a matter of courtesy to withhold his remarks till Payson was present. Lewis refused, and Davis then made the point that Lewis was not speaking to a question of privilege and compelled Lewis to take his seat. Powell, Townsend, Springer, and Adams also protested against Lewis' attack on Payson.

The Congressional Record.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 4.—In the senate Tuesday an amendment to the general deficiency bill appropriating $100,000 to complete the pedestal for Bartholdi's statue was adopted, and the bill passed. The fortification bill was also passed and the lump sum proposed by the house for river and harbors was increased to $10,000,000.

The house did a good deal of filibustering, the Republicans fighting to prevent the consideration of election cases. The pension appropriation bill was finally agreed to; it appropriates $60,000,000. The Indian appropriation bill was also agreed to, and then a debate on the subsidy clause in the postoffice bill took place, ending in the house receding and permitting the clause to stand. This probably prevents an extra session.

Both houses were in session at 4:15 a. m. with no signs of a recess.

Gen. Hazen Under Arrest.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 4.—The letter of the chief signal officer, Gen. Hazen, publicly criticising the action of the secretary of war in rejecting his recommendations concerning the Greely relief expedition, has led to the issuance of an official order by the president, suspending Gen. Hazen, directing him to consider himself under arrest, placing the signal service under temporary charge of Capt. Wills, and convening a court-martial, of which Gen. Hancock will be president, for his trial on charge of conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline.

Confirmed.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 4.—The president nominated and the senate in executive session Tuesday confirmed the nomination of E. H. Mills, of Iowa City, Iowa, to be agent of the Sac and Fox Indians. The senate also confirmed a batch of army and navy promotions.

Notes of Interest.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 4.—Gen. Sharpe has resigned as a member of the South American commission, and his resignation has been accepted by the president.

Commissioner of Patents Butterworth has tendered his resignation which was accepted by the president.

The conference committee on the sundry civil appropriation bill will report to the respective houses in favor of allowing $350,000 for aiding the New Orleans World's exposition and $15,000 additional for the women's department of the exposition.

WM. BLADON, SECRETARY.
JOHN C. SPENCER, CITY EDITOR

THE NEW PRESIDENT.

HE ARRIVES AT THE SCENE OF HIS FOUR YEARS' DUTY.

Very Few on Hand to Receive Him—A Call at the White House.

How the Cabinet Slate Stands—A City Crammed with People — Sight-Seers Everywhere — Arrivals of Political Organizations—Notes and Incidents.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 4.—Grover Cleveland quietly entered Washington at 7:30 Tuesday morning. The secret of the time when he was to arrive was kept even better than he expected it to be. The details of his proposed advance upon Washington were imparted to Senator Gorman, with instructions to convey the information to the inauguration committee, but Mr. Gorman did not divulge the secret, and the committee appointed to welcome the president-elect did not welcome him because they had not been told when to meet him at the depot. Fortunately Col. Berret, chairman of the general committee, and Mr. Galt, chairman of the executive committee, happened to be at the depot at the time, but neither had any idea of meeting Mr. Cleveland. The only persons at the depot who were expecting him were two or three newspaper men who had private information of Mr. Cleveland's movements and who had been waiting at the depot since 3 a. m. At 4 o'clock a special train came in and ran off on the siding on Maryland avenue, followed about ten minutes later by another special, but both were occupied by troops. The flagmen, a few policemen, and the telegraph operator were all the persons present, and none of them had any idea that Mr. Cleveland would come in Tuesday morning. Later the number of newspaper men present was increased to six, and the several special trains were closely inspected as they arrived. The regular train came in in three sections, all crowded. The second section held on board the Albany phalanx, but none of them knew anything of Mr. Cleveland beyond the fact that he was somewhere behind them, and would be in during the course of the day. The next section was crowded and had on two sleepers, which were very mysteriously detached from the rest of the train and taken up the track a ways and brought back on a switch. The men in charge of the train were reticent, and two or three newspaper men hung on to the hind end of the cars as they were taken out.

While attention was attracted to the closed blinds of the two mysterious sleepers, and after all the passengers had cleared out of the depot, leaving it deserted by every one but the newspaper men, the train hands, and the remnants of a fire company who had just arrived and were trying to collect themselves and be gone, another train of two sleepers and a baggage-car dropped down the track at the west side and came to a stop just under cover of the depot. The blinds were up. A lady and two little blonde children were seated at the first window. One of the little girls was playing with a doll; the other was caressing her father, Col. Lamont, who sat in the next seat. The cars stood still for five minutes without attracting any attention. Mr. Daniel Manning sat at a window next the platform, and in front of him at the next window sat Mr. Cleveland by the side of his sister. They all looked out casually except Mr. Cleveland, who sat erect and seemed as unruffled as his shiny silk hat. His sister by his side smiled as she looked at the two or three faces turned toward the windows, and Col. Lamont bowed to one of the newspaper men he knew. Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Manning then changed their seats to the other side of the cars, where they were not so conspicuously seen from the platform, and engaged in conversation. In this position they remained about ten minutes.

After Mr. Cleveland had been waiting ten minutes Col. Berret and Mr. Galt came in and asked some of the railroad men when the president-elect would arrive. Mr. Byrnes then stepped up and announced that the train was there. They looked at the two Pullman cars doubtfully for a moment. Then Mr. Galt hurried after carriages, and Col. Berret accompanied Mr. Byrnes. They had come to the depot to learn when the party was expected, so that the whole reception committee could be on hand to give them welcome. They were taken by surprise. Col. Lamont met Col. Berrett on the platform of the sleeper and then went in to announce him to the president-elect. He was admitted in a few minutes, and joined in conversation with Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Manning until the arrival of Mr. Galt to announce that the carriages were ready. The party immediately proceeded to the hotel, the avenue being crowed with people scarcely any of whom recognized the president-elect. Upon arrival at the hotel Chairman Barnum, of the national Democratic committee, welcomed the distinguished guest and they proceeded to their rooms.

Mr. Cleveland had scarcely got through his breakfast before the stream of callers set in. Senators Gorman and Garland called and left their cards without going up to see Mr. Cleveland. Judge S. W. Courtright, of Ohio, was among the first callers admitted to see Mr. Cleveland. He did not begin to receive visitors until 10 o'clock.

Col. Vilas called about 10:30 and was shown at once to Mr. Cleveland's parlor. While he was there Secretary McCulloch called and was at once shown up. Gen. Farnsworth, of New York, who has been spoken of as marshal of the district, and Col. Berret, of the inaugural committee, were among the callers at this time, and went at once up-stairs. Mayor Banks, of Albany, and Representative Dorsheimer were among those admitted up stairs, and about half-past 11 Hon. Daniel Manning and Senator Gorman called. Gen. Sheridan, accompanied by Col. Sheridan, Col. Gregory and Capt. Blantro, called to pay their respects to the president-elect, and had a short interview with him. After these gentlemen came Messrs. Kelly and Stetson, of Minnesota, and then Mr. W. C. Whitney, of New York, and after him Mr. Hendricks and Senators Hawley, Sherman and Ransom, the senate committee on inauguration.

The president-elect called at the White House in the afternoon and spent nearly two hours in conversation with President Arthur in the red parlor, and was then driven back to the Arlington hotel, and the stream of callers re-commenced. At 6:30 p. m. President Arthur returned the visit, accompanied by Marshal McMichael. The visit was a brief one, and at its conclusion Mr. Cleveland and party dined in the private dining-room. In the evening a large number of visitors were admitted, and Messrs. Manning, Vilas and Whitney were among those participating in an informal conference which began about half past 9 o'clock.

A report reached the capitol at a late hour Tuesday night that Mr. Cleveland was having difficulty with the cabinet slate, and that Whitney and Endicott will have to go and give way to R. T. Morrick and Gen. McClellan. Ex-Mayor Cooper is authority for the statement that at midnight Mr. Cleveland had not completed his cabinet. Western Democrats are protesting strongly against putting two New Yorkers and one Massachusetts man in the cabinet. Mr. Cleveland has proved somewhat sensitive to the kicking of Democrats on his silver letter, and he will say little or nothing on the silver question in his inaugural.

At the capitol, however, it is believed that Mr. Cleveland's cabinet has been decided upon, and that the slate will be as follows: Bayard (state), Endicott (war), Whitney (navy), Garland (justice), Manning (treasury), Lamar (interior), Vilas (postmaster general).

ABOUT THE CITY.

In Holiday Attire—Swarming with People—Arrivals and Incidents.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 4.—Washington has put on a gala day appearance, and is ready for the great event of inauguration. The city is painted red, white and blue. The weather was fine here Tuesday, and the weather bureau predicts fair weather for Wednesday. With Tuesday night's arrivals the inauguration excitement fairly began, and the arrival in the morning of the president-elect increased the excitement to the highest pitch. Since early in the forenoon the capitol, Pennsylvania avenue, and other main thoroughfares of the city have been literally swarmed with people. Thousands of visitors and residents promenaded the streets. Every hour of the day noted the arrival of one of the many organizations that will take part in the parade. The brilliant decorations of the public buildings and principal business houses, the passage of troops or civic organizations with gay banners and martial music, the crowd upon the sidewalks, made up a scene seldom witnessed in this or any other city. Tuesdays evening's arrivals embraced a large number of military and civic organizations, among which the New York County Democracy, the Duckworth club, of Cincinnati, and the Iroquois club, of Chicago, were the most conspicuous. The National guard of Pennsylvania gave a parade and drill late in the day, and were reviewed by Governors Pattison and Hartranft.

The Kansas Flambeau club and other organizations serenaded Vice President-elect Hendricks at night, and he responded in a brief address. Mr. Cleveland was repeatedly serenaded, but did not respond.

By midnight Tuesday the number of persons in the city was greater than ever before in its history. Never before has there been such a crowd in the capitol building. From early Tuesday morning until nearly midnight the corridors, lobbies and galleries were packed. At night the scene about the capitol was a grand one, the building and grounds being brilliantly illuminated. The Columbus (Ohio) Glee club gathered in the rotunda about 10 o'clock, and to the delight of at least 1,000 persons who surrounded them, sang a number of choice selections.

Early in the evening the elevator in the senate wing of the capitol fell with a number of people in it, but fortunately caught without doing any damage. The occupants, however, were pretty well shaken.

The Retiring President.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 4.—The White House building and grounds were crowded with visitor Tuesday. The east room, however, was the only one open to sight-seers. A policeman guarded the stairway leading to the upper parts of the house, and allowed only those on official business to pass. The president was kept very busy during the day signing acts of congress and attending to other official matters. The members of the United States supreme court, headed by Chief Justice Waite, called just before noon and took leave of the president. A meeting of the cabinet was held at noon, and lasted two hours. All the members were present. The session was devoted to clearing up all official business requiring action during the present administration. During the session a messenger brought a large cornucopia, across which was laid a beautiful horseshoe formed of rare exotics. At 2:30 the president received the members of the diplomatic corps. All the legations were represented, and it seemed as if every diplomat in the city was given an opportunity to take official leave of the president.

After the president has reviewed the inaugural procession he will proceed direct to the residence of Secretary Frelinghuysen, whose guest he will be for two or three weeks. His son and daughter will accompany him. Mrs. McElroy will be the guest of Mrs. John Field and Mrs. Haynesworth the guest of Mrs. James A. Dumont.

Mr. Tiff Got Damages.

NEW YORK, March 4.—A verdict was obtained Tuesday in the supreme court against Wong Chin Foo, the editor of The Chinese American, in favor of Chan Pard Tiff. The suit grew out of a libel which was published, reflecting upon the character of Mr. Tiff. One of the peculiar incidents of the trial was the fact that, at the request of Mr. Foo, the joss-stick, which is supposed to bring good spirits and influences about the room, was burned during the progress of the trial. The jury returned a verdict for $1,000 in favor of Mr. Tiff.

Changes in the Canadian Tariff.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 4.—The annual budget speech of the minister of finance was delivered Tuesday night. The only changes in the tariff which have any particular reference to the United States are the doubling of the duty on cigars, the imposing of duty on all fish and fish oils after the fishery clauses of the Washington treaty expire on the 1st of July next, and the prohibition of all articles manufactured by prison labor. Power is asked to enable the government at any time to reciprocate with the United States in modifying or removing certain duties.

Took a Shot at the County Democracy.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 4.—As the train which bore the members of the County Democracy of New York emerged from the western opening of Union tunnel, near the falls, on its way to Washington, Tuesday, a man standing on the wall fired a bullet through one of the windows, badly shattering the glass and taking off one of the members' hats. Sergt. Rowe of the central district, gave chase to the man but he escaped by scaling the wall of Green Mount cemetery.

Got Out of the Penitentiary by Tunneling.

JACKSON, Mich., March 4.—Six convicts escaped from the penitentiary Tuesday night by tunneling. All were long-timers. Their names are: George Wilson, George Murray, Frank Doncon, James Lawson, John Ryan, and Richard Talbot. Talbot was recaptured and admitted they had been tunneling under the blacksmith shop for over a year.

Yale Students Sue for Damages.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 4.—The selectmen were served with papers Tuesday night in behalf of three Yale students for damages, for the refusal to make the students free men, and allow them to vote in the recent presidential election.

An Effect Climax.

[Chicago Tribune.]

A melodrama was being performed in a provincial city, and the closing act was to witness the death of the heroine from poison administered by her lover. The end approached, when the lover said, "I have forgotten the vial." "Kill me with a pistol or a dagger," whispered the actress. "I have neither." "Kill me quickly, for the audience is impatient," she exclaimed. An inspiration seized him, and as she turned he gave her a kick. She faltered and fell, exclaiming: "I die by the hand of the poisoner." It was an effective climax.

AGGRESSIVE RUSSIA.

EARL GRANVILLE TELLS THE HOUSE OF LORDS

What Russia Is Doing in Afghanistan—The Afghans Told to Fight for Their Territory, and Promised England's Assistance—Foreign Notes.

LONDON, March 4.—In the house of lords Tuesday afternoon, in answer to questions respecting the position of the government on the Russian-Afghan frontier question, Earl Granville admitted that the Russian troops had been advancing in the disputed territory of Afghanistan, and when requested by the English to withdraw from the advanced posts they refused to do so. Sir Peter Lumsden advised the Afghans not to retire before the Russian troops, but to dispute every inch of ground, and said the British government would uphold them. Earl Granville refused further information. He was then pressed by the marquis of Salisbury concerning the situation in central Asia, and said the latest reports from Sir Peter Lumsden were to the effect that the Russian outposts now occupied Tulfikur, twenty miles south of Puli Khatum. A post of Turkomans was also stationed at Talikhioti, a few miles distant from Songbeh. Earl Granville said representations had been made to Russia earnestly pressing her to give stringent orders to her military commander to refrain from any forward movement which would be likely to bring about a collision between the Russian and Afghan outposts.

In reply to our remonstrances, Russia declined, on Feb. 24, to withdraw her advanced posts at Saryaria and Tulfikur pass, but gave assurance that Russian officers have been ordered carefully to avoid conflicts with Afghans, and complications need be feared in the event only of attacks being made by Afghans upon the Russian posts. Sir Peter Lumsden exerted himself to prevent collisions, and has advised the Afghans to maintain themselves at the posts they now occupy. This advice has been approved by her majesty's government. Sir Peter Lumsden has been instructed to urge the Afghans at the same time to refrain from advancing beyond their present positions. Negotiations are now in progress between her majesty's government and Russia for a settlement of the difficulty.

Salisbury asked whether the Russian outposts were within the boundary of Afghanistan. The secretary of state for India said that he had no hesitation in saying that England regards the Russian outposts as within the Afghan boundary, and that they form a considerable advance in the direction of Herat. The marquis of Lothian asked: "Does the whole question of peace or war between England and Russia depend upon the chance of a squabble between Afghan and Russian outposts?"

Granville, foreign secretary, said that he must have notice of the question.

The marquis thereupon gave notice that he would repeat the question.

It is stated that England will organize an army of 150,000 men for possible operations in view of the situation in Afghanistan.

Lessar, of the Russian Afghan frontier commission, will leave London Monday, the discussion of his proposals having closed. There is no fear at the Russian embassy of war between England and Russia. The Russian commission will meet the English commission near Balamurghab about May 10.

The Daily News expresses the hope that Russian statesmen will prove reasonable and keep their word, "otherwise the consequences must be on their heads, not ours." It says: "We are bound by a solemn treaty to protect the Afghan frontier."

The Times commends the decisive Afghan policy of the government, and says: "Our rights there are clear beyond dispute. Whatever may be necessary for the safety of India, England is fully prepared to attempt and perfectly able to perform."

The Standard and other papers have comments of a similar character.

The Dynamite Suspects.

LONDON, March 4.—In the examination of Cunningham and Burton Tuesday, the porter who carried Burton's bag from the steamship landing at Southampton to the hotel identified Burton, picking him out of a group of eighteen men. A piece of a coat found at Charing Cross station on the day of the underground railway explosion, was shown witness, and he identified it by certain peculiar buttons, as similar to the coat worn by Burton on the day he landed.

A Southampton merchant identified the portmanteau found at Charing Cross as having been sold by him to Burton. He also confirmed the porter's testimony as to Burton's coat. A tinker swore that a patch on the portmanteau was made by him and he picked Burton out of a large crowd of men as the one for whom he did the repairing.

Colonial Volunteers Depart for the Soudan.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., March 4.—Tuesday was observed as a general holiday on account of the departure of the volunteers for the Soudan. The governor, in addressing the troops and the crowds who had assembled to witness their embarkation, dwelt upon the fact that for the first time in the history of England a distant colony was sending troops to aid in maintaining the empire. He was proud that this honor and confidence had been shown to New South Wales, and he also regarded it as a proof to the world of the devotion of British colonists to the mother country. The fund raised by voluntary contributions to pay the expenses of transporting the volunteers to Suakim now reaches $22,500.

The Gag Law in Parliament.

LONDON, March 4.—In the house of commons Tuesday night, Thomas Sexton moved to adjourn for the purpose of bringing up his resolution declaring the suspension of Sexton irregular. The Parnellites had claimed that they would receive the support of a sufficient number of Conservatives to carry the resolution, but the matter was not brought to a test, for the speaker promptly ruled Sexton's motion to be out of order, and refused to recognize any of the Parnellites for the purpose of debating the ruling. The order of the day was then resumed and the speaker's action therefore stands vindicated.

England and Germany in South Africa.

LONDON, March 4.—Earl Granville wrote in December last to Sir Edward Malet, British embassador at Berlin, instructing him to assure Prince Bismarck that England felt no jealousy because of Germany's South African accessions. Germany was welcome to annex as much of Damara land and Namaqua land as she wished, even as far as the Twentieth meridian of longitude, but all the territory east of that meridian would be claimed by England as a part of Cape Colony.

Heavy Failures in Vienna.

VIENNA, March 4.—Beer Bros., dry goods merchants, of this city, have failed. Their liabilities are $400,000. Tauzer Bros., dealers in hops, have failed with liabilities reaching $480,000.

The Kaiser's Birthday.

BERLIN, March 4.—It is intended to celebrate the approaching 88th birthday of the Emperor William (March 22) with unusual pomp and magnificence. A majority of the lesser sovereigns of German states will be present in Berlin to personally testify their homage to the emperor.

The Silver Question in Germany.

BERLIN, March 4.—The reichstag has requested Prince Bismarck to resummon the monetary conferences, dropped since 1881, and to propose a resumption of silver coinage at full value by America and other leading bi-metallic countries. This action causes much discussion.

Chinese Honors to Gordon.

Pennsylvania Colliers in Convention.

PITTSBURG, Pa., March 4.—At Tuesday's joint convention of the miners of the railroad and river districts, held in this city, resolutions denouncing the recent award of Umpire Weeks as unjust, was passed unanimously. A resolution was adopted by the railroad miners demanding a retain to the 3-cent rate on or before March 9. The river miners did not vote on the resolution, but decided to convene a convention of river miners at Monongahela City on Saturday next to discuss the question. Unless the demands are acceded to another strike will likely be the result. Resolutions were also agreed to, asking the legislature to pass bills establishing a hospital in the bituminous coal regions; and to compel bi-monthly payment of wages and prohibiting company stores.

Bad State of Affairs in Cuba.

BALTIMORE, March 4.—A gentleman residing here has received a letter from Cuba, giving an account of the fearful state of affairs existing on that island, resulting from the great stagnation in business. Bands of unemployed laborers are prowling about the country making depredations on the planters, and carrying off valuables. On Feb. 19 one of these bands made a descent upon the Aurora plantation, in the Cardenas district, owned by a Mr. Belazarun. Belazarun was carried off, and a ransom of $15,000 in paper money is demanded. When the letter was mailed Mr. Belazarun was still in the hands of his captors.

Bank Swindler Arrested.

NEW YORK, March 4.—On complaint of Orson Adams, vice president of the National Bank of the Republic, Orrin Skinner, a guest at the Fifth Avenue hotel, was arrested Tuesday, charged with grand larceny. A few days ago, Mr. Adams says, Skinner deposited with the bank mentioned a draft for $2,000 on the Metropolitan bank of Boston, against which he drew $1,400. Later he presented a draft for $3,000 on the First National bank of Chicago, on which he obtained $2,300. The drafts were questioned at the clearing house, and a detective found that Skinner had remitted $2,000 to Boston Tuesday to recover the first draft. The prisoner was held in $2,000 bail.

A Drunken Doctor's Caper.

CINCINNATI, March 4.—The patrol wagon was called to Clarkson street and Central avenue about noon Tuesday to arrest Dr. J. G. McKenzie, who was running about the streets with a dead infant under his arm, wrapped in a piece of paper with the head hanging o . The doctor and the baby were taken to the Oliver street police station, where he was held on suspicion while the coroner viewed the remains. McKenzie was almost too drunk to talk, but explained that he had several students in Fairmount where he was going to exhibit the dead child to them. He refused to say where he obtained the body.

Two Men Who Went to Sea in a Tub.

BATH, Me., March 4.—Capt. John Traynor and Fritz Foderman, who sailed in the thirteen-foot dory, Harold T. Bibber, from St. Johns, N. F., for England, have now been out 150 days. No news has been received since their departure. Dr. Bibber, of this city, who furnished the dory, and for whose son the boat was named, states that the men will probably never be heard from, and that the boat must have been run into and sunk with her crew. Capt. Traynor's wife, who resides in Georgetown, still clings to the belief that her husband will arrive safely in England.

Bright Prison Officials.

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—Three convicts and a prisoner awaiting trial escaped from the parish prison here Monday night by sawing the bars of their windows and reaching the street. They are: James Clark, convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to twenty years; Duffy, alias "Yonker," ex-convict and thief, serving a term for assault and battery, and Ed Hardon, waiting trial for grand larceny. The prison authorities were unaware of the escape until informed by other prisoners. Sheriff Butler is much censured.

The Roller Contest.

NEW YORK, March 4.—The relative positions of the men in the roller contest at Madison Square garden Tuesday night was much changed, some of the contestants having wearied and declined to go farther. The attendance was large. During the whole day there was a constant stream of ladies and gentlemen going to the garden. The score at 1 a. m. stood: Broadway, 431; Schock, 410; Donovan, 400; Maddocks, 400; Boyst, 390; Walton, 365; Omelia, 354; Meyers, 339; Small, 334; Allen, 326; Elkes, 319. A Deceived Woman.

Is the lady who uses cosmetics, face lotions, white lead, bismuth, powders, arsenic, etc., in the belief of enriching and beautifying the complexion. It is but temporary and ultimately destroys the skin beyond the power of nature to restore. Stop it! Stop it now and use only Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic, which imparts the vigor and loveliness of youth.

One of Mark Twain's Early Struggles.
[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

I wonder if Mark Twain, in his prosperity and fame, when he can fill a hall on short notice, remembers the first lecture he delivered in St. Louis. It was a good many years ago, before Twain had made a national reputation. He was in St. Louis, having just come from California, and was scarcely known to any one. One day a young business man, who was running a mission school in the northern part of the city, announced to his friends that he was going to have a good lecture at his school. They asked who was going to lecture and he said Mark Twain. This was Hebrew to most of them. Twain had a lot of his usual style of posters printed, announcing the lecture and stating that a lot of prizes would be given, among which were ten smooth auger holes and others of a similar funny kind. The evening came and went and the young man's friends asked him how the lecture came off. "Oh, not very well," said he, "we had bad weather and the people somehow wouldn't come."

"How much did you take in, anyhow?"

"Only $8," was the mournful reply.

A Well of Saxon Defiled.

Here is an extract from Michael Davitt's book on British prisons:

"A pickpocket told me the history of his arrest one day in the following language: 'I was jogging down a blooming slum in the Chapel when I butted a rooler who was sporting a red slang. I broke off his jerry, and boned the clock, which was a red one, but I was spotted by a copper who claimed me. I was lugged before the beak, who gave me six doss in the Steel. The week after I was chucked up I did a snatch near St. Paul's, was collared, lagged and got this bit of seven stretch.'"

ECZEMA
And Every Species of Itching and Burning Diseases Positively Cured.

ECZEMA, or Salt Rheum, with its agonizing itching and burning, instantly relieved by a warm bath with Cuticura Soap and a single application of Cuticura, the great Skin Cure. This repeated daily, with two or three doses of Cuticura Resolvent, the New Blood Purifier, to keep the blood cool, the perspiration pure and unirritating, the bowels open, the liver and kidneys active, will speedily cure Eczema, Tetter, Ringworm, Psoriasis, Lichen Pruritus, Scald Head, Dandruff, and every species of Itching, Scaly, and Pimply Humors of the Scalp and Skin, when the best physicians and all known remedies fail.

WILL McDONALD, 2542 Dearborn St., Chicago, gratefully acknowledges a cure of Eczema or Salt Rheum on head, neck, face arms and legs for seventeen years: not able to walk except on hands and knees for one year; not able to help himself for eight years; tried hundreds of remedies; doctors pronounced his case hopeless; permanently cured by Cuticura Resolvent (blood purifier) internally, and Cuticura and Cuticura Soap (the great skin cure) externally.

CHAS. HOUGHTON, Esq., lawyer, 28 State St. Boston, reports a case of Eczema under his observation for ten years, which covered the patient's body and limbs, and to which all known methods of treatment had been applied without benefit, which was completely cured solely by the Cuticura Remedies, leaving a clean and healthy skin.

F. H. DRAKE, Esq., Detroit, Mich., suffered untold tortures from Eczema, which appeared on his hands, head and face, and nearly destroyed his eyes. After a most careful doctoring and a consultation of physicians failed to relieve him, he used the Cuticura remedies, and was cured, and has remained so to date.

MR. JOHN THIEL, Wilkesbarre, Pa., writes: "I have suffered from Salt Rheum for over eight years, at times so bad that I could not attend to my business for weeks at a time. Three boxes of Cuticura and four boxes of Resolvent have entirely cured me of this dreadful disease."

—There is about Talmage a vehemence an urgency, an earnestness, which sometimes carries him away as in a kind of wild whirlwind. He has immense command of words, and great fluency of speech. But he is not diffuse,—anything but that. His sentences, some of them especially, fall with a force and a strength which is sometimes almost painful. There is a reckless abandon about many of his sermons, a hearty outspokenness, which is as refreshing as a dip into a mountain stream on a hot summer's day. He has now the largest congregation, and perhaps, the most powerful church in America.—Hartlepool (England) Northern Echo.

Inauguration Day.

Inauguration day in Janesville was ushered in at an early hour this morning by the unfurling of the Cleveland and Hendricks flag in front of the democratic headquarters on West Milwaukee street. The sky was overcast with clouds, and a snow mantle covered the ground, notwithstanding enthusiastic democrats claimed the day was bright. It was bright to them, and we are perfectly willing they should have their way. At eleven o'clock, Janesville time, a salute was fired, and shortly after, the Catholic cornet band was called out, and paraded the streets, playing some national airs. The band halted in front of the postoffice, but the future boss of that concern failed to make himself known, and but very little excitement was noticed. Groups of enthusiastic democrats who had suffered political defeat for the past quarter of a century, were noticed here and there, evidently intending to have some kind of a jubilee, while all the younger ones satisfied their loyalty to the victorious party by donning their campaign hats, prominent among the latter we noticed Farady Murphy, on the hurricane deck of a republican coal wagon. Farady was as proud as an Emperor

The old war horses of the democracy are taking the day more coolly, nevertheless they are feeling good natured, and claimed that Heaven had smiled upon them at last. At twelve o'clock the band returned to their quarters, the canons ceased firing, and quiet reigned supreme. Later in the afternoon many prominent democrats were on the streets, wearing their old campaign hats. Otherwise the day has been very quiet, and the control of the executive branch of the government of the Great Republic passed to the hands of the democracy without a ripple of undue excitement. Vive la republique

TEMPERANCE WORKERS.

An Appeal to the Mothers of Janesville.

How shall we save our children from being contaminated by the evils of intoxicating drink? How best fortify them against the temptations of this baneful traffic, and the enticing snares of fifty saloons in our midst.

That it is our duty to protect them, we all acknowledge, but the most effectual manner of accomplishing it, should be the serious question of every mother's heart. Every christian mother admonishes her child, but does that alone establish a sufficient foundation against the powerful temptation of strong drink?

Our children should be enlightened, as well as admonished on this subject. Against other evils, we may protect ourselves by the strong arm of the law, but against this we are almost powerless. "Light is often more effective than might be sight."

If the child can be taught what a poison alcohol is, the pains and penalties it imposes upon the body, and its destructive action upon the human mind, a yoke shall be lifted from the next generation, the burden of which exceeds all our estimation, and a new type of men and women shall gladden our earth, now smitten with this terrible curse.

The true significance of alcohol as a poison must be taught the young before we can suppress this blighting vice. Nine-tenths of our adult population are ignorant of the nature and influence of alcoholic beverages, and the evils arising from this ignorance are wide-spread. Our only hope of lessening and destroying them is by enlightening the mind, spreading knowledge and using every means, that christianity offers to us.

It is a fact that in Germany, a few years of gymnastic training has made nearly every young man an advocate of physical training. Let us then give our children a temperance training, and it shall be said of America, in a short time, that nearly every young man is a temperance young man.

Are we not responsible as mothers, if we neglect this part of our children's education? "We are workers together with God" and however temperate may be the homes in which our children are trained, every boy and girl needs to be taught, as a scientific truth, that every glass of wine, beer or any other alcoholic drink, contains a poison which will at the last "bite like a serpent and sting like an adder."

Such a work is being done in this city, and to this end a few self sacrificing ladies are devoting themselves. Are the mothers of Janesville seconding and encouraging their efforts by sending for one hour (Sunday afternoon) their children, where they may be instructed as to the nature and effects of intoxicating drinks?

We invite every mother to engage in this labor of love—assisting the young by encouragement and advice, to lay a foundation of temperance and total abstinence, the true source of domestic and social happiness.

A TEMPERANCE WORKER.

Knocked Out by Disease.

The most vigorous physique and adamantine endurance cannot hold out unaided against climatic and other influences prejudical to health. No one can persistently breathe vitiated or miasmatic air, eat unwholesome food, indulge in excess, or toil unceasingly, without eventually falling a prey to disease. One of the surest defensive measures against it is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. But potent as this auxiliary of health is, it would be preposterous to expect it to maintain a sanitary condition of the system if they who seek its aid willfully abandon every other precaution against disease, and thus thwart its operation. Sobriety, the avoidance of exciting cause, are important elements in health maintenance. A regard being had to these, a system fortified by the Bitters will be exempt from malaria, rheumatism, dyspepsia, constipation and other maladies.

One Feels the Luxury of Benevolence.

Many thousands of the visitors to the great Industrial Exposition at New Orleans view the far-famed Charity Hospital there with delight, feel that they too have a heritage and share in the benevolence by which it is maintained, as the Louisiana State Lottery, contributed in one donation of one million dollars, payable in installments for its maintenance, about which M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., will give any information.

The Weather.

At seven o'clock this morning the thermometer indicated 31 degrees above zero. Cloudy, with northwest wind. At one o'clock p. m. the register was 41 degrees above zero. Partly cloudy with west wind. For the corresponding time one year ago the register was 10 degrees below and 22 degrees above zero.

HIGH LICENSE.

The Petition of the Beloit High License Men for the Passage of a High License Law.

To The Honorable, The Republican Members of the Legislature, of the State of Wisconsin.

WHEREAS, It has come to public notice that the present republican legislature has, for some unaccountable reason, shown symptoms of weakening on the proposed high license measure with which it entered upon its work; and,

WHEREAS, It still remains true that the party has nothing to lose by concession to an interest which was solidly opposed to it in the last campaign, but everything to gain by vindicating its claims of being the party of progress in meeting the demands of its honest supporters; and,

WHEREAS, It seems especially opportune that the republican party shall do something unequivocal in its moral import as a justification of the claims made for it, and as a refutation of the slanders which overwhelmed it in the recent political struggle; therefore,

Resolved, First, that we respectfully petition our republican legislators that they be alive to the emergencies of the case, and pass an unequivocal high license measure that shall be sure of enforcement, and valid in its terms of statement.

Resolved, Second, that if possible a local option measure shall be incorporated in the law that shall make the determining authority of all license or anti-license measures in towns to which the law applies, the direct vote of the people, instead of its present method of decision in and through the officials of such towns.

Resolved, Third, that we deem some such measure as the above of so much importance that its failure to pass will, in our judgement seriously affect the loyalty of many who have been among the staunchest supporters of the party in the state.

A Poor Man's Confidence.

The loss of time to many a rheumatic sufferer is a worse agony than the disease. The remedy which is prompt and efficacious is his only real benefactor. Says Mr. F. Smith, of 622 S. 9th st., Phil.: "I sufferod so much from rheumatism without prospect of relief, that I borrowed the money to buy a bottle of Athlophoros. After seven doses I had not a sharp pain or ache. Have been at work ever since. It is all that is claimed for it, and will prove a sovereign balm for many a poor suffering soul."

Have We a Health Officer Among Us?

To the Editor.

The attention of the authorities has been frequently called to the condition of the open sewer, corner of Court and Main street, which seems to be the receptacle for the drainage of the Frederdal block. No less than two cases of scarlet fever now prevail in that block traceable, undoubtedly, to the accumulations in the defective sewerage of the buildings. How much longer are the lives of our little ones to be jeopardized by the neglect of our city authorities (who take such a deep interest in the welfare of our city about election time) to abate all the nuisances of gutter deposits in our city?

X.

A Wonderful Story.

Consumptives and all, who suffer from any affection of the throat and lungs, can find a certain cure it Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption. Thousands of permanent cures verify the truth of this statement. No medicine can show such a record of wonderful cures. Thousands of once hopeless sufferers now gratefully proclaim they owe their lives to this new discovery. It will cost you nothing to give it a trial. Free trial bottles at F. Women Who Detest Marriage.

[Woman's Cor. Pittsburg Dispatch.]

Men marry the rattle-brains of society. They choose the pretty, good-for-nothing girls, for that is the kind they like; they run after and marry the liveliest girl at a picnic or a ball, though she may be a "holy terror" at home; they rush after the belle and the heiress, though she may be selfish and spoiled, silly; they pass by the jewels and take "the snide," for that is all they know, and then, like Adam, they blame the fruits of their own folly on the woman. 'Twas ever thus.

But, brethren—we wish to break it to you gently—there are women right here at home who have their own money to spend as they please, who have their own pleasant homes and congenial occupations, who can, if the fancy seizes them, pack their trunks and take a jaunt to New Orleans, slip off to Washington for a few weeks, take in the cream of New York, or the balmy airs of Florida; in short, have a royal time in any way they choose, who call no man master, and who "wouldn't marry the best man that ever stepped in shoe leather."

This will be a shock to you, beloved brethren, but is none the less true. Women find pleasure and comfort and happiness outside of matrimony. It is not flattering to men, but there is a growing disinclination to marriage among women. They are growing more critical as to the measure of a man. He will have to come up to a nobler, higher standard, or, in the poetical parlance of the day, he will get "left."

The Bang Has Gone.

[Blakely Hall.]

The bang has now entirely gone out of fashion, and the most fashionably arrayed women draw their hair straight back from their foreheads and pile it in an unpretentious knot on the top of the head. It is an extremely trying fashion, and the girls who have knobby foreheads and heads caved in behind revolt against it. They will all fall in line after a while, though, and the bang which so long sprawled down over the eyes will disappear, to be revived again a hundred years or less hence.

I was looking over a bound copy of Harper's Monthly twenty-five or thirty years old, a few days ago, while rumaging among some old books, and I was particularly struck by the elaborate coiffure of the women in various pictures, including a lot of sketches from London Punch. The fashionable craze then was over the chignon. I wonder how long it will be before these elaborate modes of dressing the hair will be revived again. Waterfalls, switches and like schemes for increasing the apparent yield of hair were fashionable until a few years ago, and I think I have seen women with powdered hair piled up to an immense height on the top of their heads sitting in boxes at the academy as late as 1875. The era of plainness and modesty has now reached its height. There will be a movement the other way before long.

Stoutness of English Women.

[The Argonaut.]

An English woman of 40 who is not fat—whether she be fair or not—is a rarity, and when one remembers how English women live there is no reason to wonder at it. The climate does not cause it—it is the inordinate eating that causes it. They have their rolls and coffee on rising, and often before rising; breakfast at 10, lunch at 3, tea at 5, dine at 7, and, after all that, have supper before retiring. No wonder that they expand to a size which gives a man, as Hawthorne says, "two wives instead of one." But the custom of so many meals is dying out, and there is at last hope that English women will grow no stouter, as they grow older, than their slighter cousins on this side of the creek.

Emerald Grove.

—Jimmie Williams, a resident of the grove two or three years ago, showed up on Monday last, and was greeted by his many friends. Jimmie has been living near Milton and at Edgerton, and judging from his appearance, must be prospering.

—B. Roy Cheney was home from Beloit on Sunday.

—Word was received to-day of the death of Mrs. George Chilcott, of Clinton. Mr. and Mrs. Chilcott formerly lived in this vicinity, and her death is much regretted by her many friends.

—W. D. McGregor resumes school, after a week's rest. He is improved in health, and hopes to finish the term without any interruption.

—Frank Cummings started on Monday last for Larned, Kansas. We understand his intentions are to find a home in a warmer climate than this.

Lost—On Wednesday morning, February 25th, a lady's mink collar, between Russel Cheney's and the store, or between the store and the residence of J. T. Boynton. The finder will confer a favor by leaving the same at the store of W. D. Hastings.

—Miss Abbie Byrne, of Janesville, was a visitor at Dr. Seeber's last week.

—Rev. T. S. Oadams and wife, of Hebron, have been visiting Mrs. Oadams' parents, east of the Grove. Mr. Oadams lately received a donation of $60 and a fine overcoat from the people of his charge. He is also worthy chief of the Good Templar lodge and has secured a strong hold on the young people of the place.

—Hastings has a full stock of rubber coats and boots at bottom prices.

—A. E. Joiner has sold several of his pure bred light Brahma chicks at from three to five dollars each.

—Mr. Henry Loyd, Sr., lost a valuable horse last week.

—John Cummings, after being confined to the house for several weeks, is out on the streets enjoying the weather when it is mild. Jas. Phillips is also getting out.

—Ezra Cheesebro is having quite a sick spell.

—Willie McArthur has been for some time on the sick list and at last accounts was not improving.

—J. B. Huested, of Frankfort, Dakota, is stopping at W. F. Goodrich's.

An End to Bone Scraping

Edward Shepherd, of Harrisburg, Ill., says: "Having received so much benefit from Electric Bitters, I feel it my duty to let suffering humanity know it. Have had a running sore on my leg for eight years; my doctor told me I would have to have the bone scraped or leg amputated. I used, instead, three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and my leg is now sound and well."

Electric Bitters are sold at 50 cents a bottle, and Bucklin's Arnica Salve at 25c per box by F. Sherer & Co.

Johnstown.

—Our good sleighing is fast disappearing and people begin to think that springtime is near at hand when the programme must be changed from fooling away the time to a season of manual labor. Well, we say farewell to this long spell of zero weather; let what will come it can hardly be more disagreeable.

—There is material already got together for five or six more tobacco sheds in this neighborhood, and a man who does not have a tobacco shed this year, is considered out of fashion. The farmers want to raise something that will bring more profit than grain, and they will keep trying.

Special Notice to the Public.

There are several parties desirous of purchasing my business, but unless they accede to my terms I shall continue the great closing out sale until further notice

Notwithstanding the extreme cold weather which prevented many of my oldest and best customers living at a distance, from visiting the city, this has been the greatest sale of dry goods ever known in Janesville, which I have the figures to prove. Those who have been unable to take advantage of the bargains will now have an opportunity of doing so, and I advise them to come as soon as possible, as negotiations now in progress may terminate in the sale of the entire business any day. Respectfully,

M. O. SMITH.

Objected to Their Overseer.

BELLAIRE, Ohio, March 4.—The steel-mill here is idle again, caused by the workmen refusing to recognize Charles Barkenbush, the newly-appointed overseer for the night turn, as their boss. Barkenbush is a non-union man, and therein lies the trouble. A meeting has been called by the management, when it is expected the differences will be adjusted.

SETTLED ON THE SPOT.

Afraid to Try the Law—A Bill for "Contributory Piracy."

[Detroit Free Press.]

After standing in front of the store for several minutes, seemingly undecided what to do, he entered and asked for the proprietor and then began:

"My ole woman was gwine long yere las' night an' fell down on your sidewalk an' busted her elbow."

"Ah! Well, being you are a poor man I'll make the charges as light as possible!"

"But dat hain't de case, sah. A lawyer tells me dat you is 'spensible fur dat slippery sidewalk, an' dat I kin git damages."

"Exactly, but you don't understand the matter. In the first place you must fee your lawyer and put up for court expenses. Then you prove that I own the sidewalk. Then you prove that your wife was not guilty of contributory negligence. Then you prove that your wife didn't bust her elbow by falling down stairs. Then I appeal the case, and the higher court grants a new trial. By that time your wife and her busted elbow are dead and buried, and you are married again, and you offer to settle for five pounds of brown sugar."

"Fo' de Lawd! but has I got to wade frew all dat?"

"All that and more. The grocery business is cut so close that I shall probably be a bankrupt by April, and then what good will a judgement do you?"

"Dat's so—dat's so."

"Or the case may hang in the supreme court until both of us are dead."

"I see. And you would gin two pounds of brown sugar to settle de case now?"

"Well, yes."

"Den you may do it up, and arter dis de ole woman takes de odder side of de street or we dissolve partnership! I 'spected ebery minit you war gwine to twist it around to levy on my household goods, an' if I'm two pounds of sugar ahead I want to close de case to once afore you bring in a bill fur contributory piracy!"
